

Participate in a universal call to prayer!

Human beings have an innate understanding of their relationship with the earth and when the time comes we all welcome it among the most meaningful obligations of our lives. People of every faith recognise their sacred responsibility to care for the earth. On June 28th, the Ardoch Algonquin First Nation is inviting people of all faiths to join them again in praying for their homeland which has been seriously harmed by uranium exploration.

If you have ever felt the need to speak up for creation and seek justice for people who live close to the land please come to Robertsville to join us. If you can't come out to the land please encourage your faith community to remember the Ardoch struggle when you gather together.

June 28th
2009

On the Robertsville mine site

pray for the land

For information:
Robert Lovelace
705-748-9685
lovelace@queensu.ca

For a map to Robertsville, more pictures and site information go to the Ardoch
Algonquin First
Nation Website:
[http://www.aafna
.ca/](http://www.aafna.ca/)